

I hear voices in my head... An Introspective Effort

William Ben (BJ) Bellamy Jr

I hear voices in my head. And each of them has more personality than I do.

I hear voices in my head. But all they want to talk about is my extended car warranty.

I'm a boomer and have a millennial voice in my head. It doesn't say much, just wines a lot!

I hear voices in my head. Well, except that one who owes me money. Haven't heard a thing out'a him.

I hear voices in my head. One is very shy and insists I do all the talking.

I hear voices in my head. But I can't understand them, they keep using big words I don't understand.

I hear an introvert in my head. He doesn't say much, he just stares at my shoes.

I hear insecure voices in my head. They don't say very much, and when they do, they apologize.

I hear voices in my head. And when I walk into another room, I forget what they were talking about.

I hear voices in my head. They tell me to do things I don't want to do - like the dishes.

I hear voices in my head, sorta. One of them identifies as mute.

I hear voices in my head. I wondered out loud the other day whether they were real or just my delusions, and then they cancelled me!

I hear voices in my head. One of them sounds like they are sucking on a balloon filled with helium. The others just keep snickering.

I hear voices in my head. I think one of them is senile. He keeps asking "Margret" where's his jello.

I hear voices in my head. I heard them talking the other day while they thought I was sleeping. Bunch of jerks!

I hear voices in my head. So I made up my own imaginary voice named Tony and started talking with him. Now when one of the others says something, I tell them not to interrupt Tony! They are all so confused!

I hear voices in my head. But they keep talking to each other and leaving me out of their conversations!

I hear voices in my head. But none of them speak English.

I hear voices in my head. But they insist that I am in their heads eavesdropping! They have contacted their lawyers!

I like to pretend that I am the voice in someone else's head. Maybe yours.

I hear voices in my head. Actually it's gas, but it identifies as voices in my head.

I hear voices in my head. But they say they identify as me, so maybe I don't...?

I hear voices in my head. I woke up late one night, and all I heard in my head was snoring.

I hear voices in my head. I was eating dinner the other night, and they kept telling me not to think with my mouth full.

I hear voices in my head. One is a stand-up comic. I disputed his existence and he called me a heckler and asked security to escort me out!

I hear voices in my head. One of them sounds just like my wife. Wait a second. What? Hold on... Woops! That was Kim! Gotta go folks!

I hear voices in my head. They often ask me my name like we have never met.